Shorthorn pen numbers stretch 1981 show size

By RALPH HEINEMANN

A single class of seven pens of 5 Shorthorn and Polled Shorthorn bulls swelled this entry to one of the largest of modern times at the 1981 National Western Stock Show.

Berg's Shorthorns, Osage, Iowa, repeated 1980 performance in this class with the win of the champion pen award. All their entries were red! All were Polled!

Mohr's Polled Shorthorns, Cottonwood, Minn., were reserve champion pen of 5.

In the pens of three, nine total entries moved this section up from five entries in 1980; and nearly doubled the numbers on display.

The entry from the older class, R. Lee Johnson, Fredericktown, Ohio, won the championship. They included two reds and a red and white that scaled 1665 lbs. each.

The reserve pen of three were senior bull calves from Richard Dolginow, Excelsior Springs, Mo. They weighed in at 1275 lbs. each and included a roan, a red and a red and white entry.

In the pen show, a total of 62 individual bulls made this the largest show in recent times.

top quality working stock. This is the only true sale of its kind, and the quality of the offering is very good. The sales were managed, and horses sold into 14 states.

POLLED OFFICERS—Bill Wolfe (right) of Wallonia, Ore., and Bill Waalstan of Sheridan, Wyo., have been elected chairman and vice chairman, respectively, of the board of directors of the American Polled Hereford Assn. ## Comments

The domestic cattle feeding industry appears to have been on a collision course with the rapid growth of grain exports for several years. The intersection of these expansion paths has been inevitable since 1974 by five consecutive years of increasing U.S. corn production.

The large drop in feed grain yields in 1980 along with record high export sales could signal that the collision of these paths can no longer be avoided, the Western Livestock Round-up report for January suggests.

Anticipation of continued escalation in feed costs at a time when beef movement has been slow is certainly reason for concern. Commercial production of red meat provides an important part of the food supply. Use of grain for livestock feeding in recent years has been an important factor associated with increases in meat production and consumption in many of the developed nations. The U.S. leads the world in the production and use of grain for livestock feed.

Remember, however, the United States is the only nation in the world where cattle on feed for commercial slaughter is one of the major categories for use of feed grain.

Many market observers expect that cattle prices will not keep pace with rising grain costs for the rest of this country. This likely will result in less grain being used for livestock feeding in the years ahead.

Projections of feed grain use for the 1980-81 feeding year just released by USDA indicate that feed use this year would be about seven percent less than the record 136 million metric tons used last year.

If expansion of international trade in feed grains continues through the 1980s, it is expected that feed grain prices will be higher relative to cattle prices than at most times during the past 30 years. Thus, it seems that the production of beef in the U.S. cannot expand at the rate experienced for the past three decades.

As population increases, per capita beef consumption in the years ahead may be as much as 10-15 lbs. below the 80-90 lb. [retail weight] experienced over the past several years. Only producers, feeders and processors who adjust their enterprises to the economic reality of this change will survive.

Weather offsets bullishness:

Meaning of cattle on feed report cloudy

There were 11.165 million head of cattle and calves on feed on Jan. 1 in the 23 major producing states, five percent below a year ago and 12 percent under Jan. 1, 1979, the USDA said.

An average of 22 livestock analysts expected the report to show cattle on feed at 96.3% on Jan. 1, 1980, figure, or slightly above the 95% reported by USDA, according to Commodity News Service (CNS).

USDA also reported a bigger drop in the October-to-December 1980 placements that private analysts had forecast. USDA said 7.34 million head were put on feed during the three-month period, 91% of the same quarter in 1979 and 85% of the fourth quarter of 1978. Analysts predicted placements would be 84.5% of 1979.

USDA said fourth-quarter 1980 fed-cattle marketings totaled 5.68 million head, or 96% of the same period of 1979. Analysts had expected increased fourth-quarter marketings, with the average estimate at 100.7% of the 1979 total.

USDA said cattle feeders intend to market 6.29 million head in the first quarter of 1981. That total would be two percent higher than the first quarter of 1980, but seven percent less than the first quarter of 1979.

Any bullishness in the cattle-on-feed report will be overshadowed by excellent feeding weather — which continues to pull cattle on feed ahead of schedule — and heavy cow slaughter, according to livestock analysts contacted by CNS.

When the industry markets more cattle than they place, it is normally considered friendly to the cattle market, said Dick Hummel, Farmer Grain and Livestock analyst.

However, he said, near-term cash cattle prices will not be affected because of (Continued on page 12)

Indemnity cut for death of animals from illegal drugs

The USDA will no longer pay indemnities for destruction of diseased livestock or poultry when infection results from the knowing use of an illegal product or potential disease carrying agent.

Products and agents such as vaccines, semen, embryo transplants, and other potential disease carriers are illegal when imported or used in violation of federal-state quarantine laws.

According to C.G. Meson of USDA's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service, USDA has cooperated with states to control and eradicate communicable livestock and poultry diseases since 1884. This includes paying indemnities to farmers and ranchers when infected or exposed animals and materials are destroyed as a means of eradicating a disease outbreak, he said.

"We will continue to pay such indemnities — but not to persons who knowingly use an illegal product or vector," Meson said.

Although vaccines are usually thought of in positive terms, Meson said, "under certain circumstances their use may cause infection or result in animals becoming disease carriers." Semen, for example, is a known vector for about 35 diseases including foot-and-mouth disease and hog cholera, he said.

LMA campaign lashes marketing laws

A nationwide campaign to reform federal and state livestock marketing laws has been announced by Livestock Marketing Association (LMA).

The campaign seeks to substitute the "stockyard" title of the federal Packers and Stockyard Act, with modern provisions for market, dealer and broker businesses. Proposed legislation would leave the packer and poultry provisions of the P&S Act intact.

At the state level, the campaign will work for the passage of uniform live-

TOUGH TOT—Among stock show goers at this year's National Western, few struck a more rugged pose than this youngster, who took time out from his busy day to hold still for a camera. Although many a fired exhibitor was glad to see this year's extended show wind down, enthusiasts such as he will, no doubt, be anxiously awaiting next year. (Staff photo by Martha Williams)

Lyng to become deputy ag sec'y

Richard Lyng, a long-time supporter of President Ronald Reagan and a former assistant secretary of agriculture, has been appointed deputy agriculture secretary, the second highest job in the department, the White House has announced, according to CNS.

Lyng was named head of Reagan's transition team at USDA after serving during the campaign as coordinator of the fund-raising effort in the agricultural states.

During Reagan's term as governor of California, he appointed Lyng director of the state's department of agriculture. Prior to that appointment, Lyng was president of the Ed Lyng Co. Inc., a family seed business in Modesto, Calif. (Continued on page 12)

Crowd size proves rise in South Devon interest

By JERRY YORK
This was the second year that the North American South Devon Assn. held its national show and sale during the National Western Stock Show, Denver, Colo. 'Iceman' tops powerful sale of Charolais cattle

By JERRY YORK
A truly powerful offering of hand-selected Charolais cattle combined with a huge crowd in the Beef Palace Auction Arena during the National Western Stock Show boosted the 2nd National Charolais Sale into the upper echelon of sales averages posted during this livestock show. The cattle represented sons of the breed's best herds, and surely those consignors and buyers in attendance can be proud of this display of breed strength.

Topping the entire sale offering was ABC Iceman 811, the 1981 National Western Charolais Champion Bull. A March 17, 1978 son of Johnny Cake Extremator, he sold for a whopping $116,000 for a 1/8 interest. He was shown and consigned by Wason Charolais, Inc., Windy Hills Charolais Ranch, J Ber J Ranch and ABC Ranch, Kosikong, Mo., and when the dust settled following spirited bidding, Diane Erie, McDonald's Restaurant/Woolie Farm, LeGrange, Ky., owned a piece of this great breeding bull.

Baumen Ranch, Carpen-ter, Wyo., one of the breed's pioneer establishments, entered JB Chert 172, the reserve champion female of the show, and she created a strong flurry of bidding activity. Windy Hill Farm, Commerce, Ga., and Derby Farm, Crestwood, Ky., won the bidding battle and now own a 1/2 interest in this top female for $17,500. JB Chert 172 is an Oct. 11, 1978 daughter of Double Hook Sculptor.

At $15,000 Watcha Charolais, New Forest, Ont., Canada, took possession of a 1/4 breeding interest in the Royal Charolais Co., Youngwood, Pa., consignment, KCC Royal Temp-tress 2927. She was the champion female in the national show and is an April 21, 1979 daughter of HCR Expectation 269, Gen-try's Double Hook Ranch and Miller Farm, Whitman, Neb., entered Double Hooks MS Courage 8308, and she sold safe in calf to 12 Oaks Charolais Ranch, Enid, Okla., for $11,000. A Nov. 5, 1978 daughter of Courage, she was a popular entry.

Double H Polled Show-girl, a Feb. 11, 1980 daughter of SHF Sir Royal Sam 80, was entered by Double H Charolais, Paysonville, Minn., and she sold to Double AA Farms, New London, Minn., for $8000 for 1/16 interest. At $7750, JC Enterprises, Ringo, Pa., became owner of a Borton Charolais Ranch, Mandi, Utah consignment, BCR Miss Borton 937. A May 13, 1979 daughter of LCR Impressive C660, she sold safe in calf to Riverwood Instigator.

Baumen Ranch also entered BR Maureen 106, a May 9, 1979 daughter of Double Hooks Sculptor bred to BR Marco Polo Polled, and she returned $6500 and went to Jim Cruikshank, Olds, Alberta, Canada, and Robert Palmer, Bledworth, Sask., Canada.

This was undoubtedly the strongest Charolais sale to be held in Denver during the National Western, and the credit for its success should go to the consignors for bringing the top quality animals, the sale manager for an excellent job of screening the entries.

Wind erosion affects Great Plains acreage

Wind erosion damaged more than 1.1 million acres (440,000 hectares) of land in the Great Plains during the last two months of 1980, a USDA official said.

Norman A. Berg, chief of USDA's Soil Conservation Service said reports from the 10-state area show wind damage on 1,143,245 acres (467,298 hectares), down slightly from 1,390,901 acres (566,360 hectares) damaged during the same period in 1979.

Montana, with 327,082 wind-damaged acres (130,833 hectares), accounted for 29% of the total. The northern plains states were hardest hit with 89% of the damaged acreage.

Oklahoma's 'Sooner' wins honor of Gelbvieh grand champion bull

By DICK CROW

The American Gelbvieh Association held its national show Jan. 22 at the National Western Stock Show, Denver, Colo. The entries consisted of both purebred and percentage cattle which were judged by Miles McKee of Manhattan, Kan.

Grand champion purebred bull honors went to the yearling entry of Craig Cooper, Ada, Okla., approximately named Sooner. Reserve was on the spring calf, LNR 829M, shown by Nelson Gelbvieh Ranch, Ellensburg, Wash.

The female purebred entries of Gelbvieh this year were especially strong. Heading these as grand champion was the summer yearling, JON 520L, an entry of John C. Cooper, Cooper Bros. & Assoc., Mountain View, Minn. Reserve was on the Cooper Bros. & Assoc.'s junior calf, CHA 13M.

Charolais compete for honors during Denver national show

By DICK CROW

Renewed interest and enthusiasm nationwide in Charolais cattle was reflected this year in Denver in the 12th National Charolais Show at the National Western Stock Show, Jan. 21-22.

More than 200 head of individual breeding stock competed for the honors, and perhaps there have been shows with larger numbers in the past, but it is doubtful any competition was every as better than the cattle on display at this year's show.

ABC Iccman 811 M, the senior champion bull, was also awarded grand championship by the trio of judges. This massive son of Johnny Cake Extremator was shown by Wascon Charolais, Inc., Windy Hills Charolais Ranch, J Bar J Ranch and ABC Ranch, Koshkonong, Mo. Reserve grand champion bull was Hickory Lane Professor of Roger E. Hunsley & Family, W. Lafayette, Ind., and by one of the show's big winners, Royal Charolais Co., Greensburg, Pa.

As usual, the female classes ran strong and deep. Royal Charolais Co. was awarded grand champion on the spring yearling, RCC Toyel Tempress 2927. Reserve went to the pioneer western firm, Bauman Ranch, Inc., Carpanter, Wyo., on JB Chari 172, winner of the cow and calf competition.

Angus breed unholds tradition; puts on strong, exciting show

By JOHN E. COOTE

The south side of the stadium was filled to capacity with Angus enthusiasts for the 1981 National Western Angus show.

Carrying on the tradition of having one of the strongest, most consistent breed shows during these ten days every January, the Angus exhibitors gave the crowd what they came to see—a show that entices excitement and stimulates interest.

From intermediate champion in 1980, through a year of many victories on the road, Sir Williams Warrant returned to Denver to become the 1981 senior and grand champion Angus bull. This extremely popular champion is a May 7, 1978 son of Wetonku 2446 and was shown by Lovene Farms and Quirk Land and Cattle Co., Clarksville, Ga.

Reserve grand winners in the 86 head show went to the junior calf champion, the much talked about High Vollege, a March 20, 1980 son of Mr. Angus, the 1979 grand and the 1980 reserve grand at Denver. High Vollege is owned and shown by Huckfeldt-Krebs Angus, Gordon, Neb., and Kilgore Angus Farm, Rising City, Neb.

Judge Jerry Fitzgerald, Harrison, Neb., in final remarks on the female show, stated, "I have reached for females that are feminine." He then named Kendall's First Lady, the 1981 grand champion Angus female. This heifer topped 144 entries, first becoming junior champion and then grand. First Lady is a March 27, 1979 daughter of Seyre Patriot and is owned by Seyre Farms, Phelps, N.Y., and George M. Young, Peluxy, Tex.

Reserve grand and reserve junior champion female went to Nelson Protek 9072, a February 1979 daughter of Nelson Headstori, owned by Janna Nelson, Salmon, Idaho. The entire Angus show exhibited a tremendous amount of depth, and the breed as a whole can be proud of this exhibition.

Santa Gertrudis please crowd

By DICK CROW

The big, ruddy red cattle put on a good display for this year's Santa Gertrudis show at the National Western Stock Show, Denver, Jan. 23. Each year more and more spectators are on the seats in watching these Santa Gertrudis placings.

Cherokee Ranch, Sedalia, was the consistent winner again at this year's show. Owner Tweet Kimball has sincerely and enthusiastically supported the growth of the use of quality Santa Gertrudis throughout the Mountain/Plains region. Her "Governess" looked great in the show ring, including the grand champion bull, Cherokee Little Gynvum by Cherokee the Gynvum.

Other first place and champion winners included: Crooked Nail Ranch, Gormid, Minn.; Haste Ranch Inc., Meeteetse, Wyo.; Continental Ranches, Buckeye, Ariz.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Tax Corner is a new column which will appear in the WLD approximately the first week of every month. This special feature will offer tax advice especially useful to our farm and ranch readers. The authors, Daniel Japhan and Ernest Panasiak, attorneys at law with the Denver firm of Rothgerber, Appel & Powers, urge readers to discuss the tax matters detailed below with their personal tax advisor.

By JERRY JAPHAN and ERNEST PANASIAK

Everyone is painfully aware of the old saying that the only certainties in life are death and taxes. The structure of the federal estate tax causes those two painful and certain events to occur simultaneously. Unfortunately, it is not until a family member's death that the bite of the federal estate tax becomes a shocking reality.

Simmental sale another 'Trendsetter'

By JERRY YORK

The National Simmental Trendsetter Sale 1981 held in conjunction with the National Western Stock Show and the American Simmental Assn. National Convention, Denver, Colo., drew a vast crowd of people.

The breed exhibited its strength by the quality animals to the sale offering and the enthusiastic manner in which the buying crowd accepted the bulls and females. Bidding was steady and strong from start to finish, with cattle selling into a wide area.

Two bulls were sold for a 1/10 interest in each, and one sold for a 2/3 interest, making their value substantially higher than the sale topper. However, the bull returning the most dollars to the owner was Circle B Mr. 28L. This outstanding purebred bull was consigned by Circle B Cattle Co., Geneseo, Ill., and he sold for $15,200 to HB Simmental, Saymore, Iowa, and Larry Drmko, Centerville, Iowa. A July 2, 1979 son of Canadian Salvator 12827, he was a popular bull with the buying crowd.

Bringing $10,000 for a 1/10 interest and making the bull's value $100,000, was SF Polled Proficiency, a May 5, 1980

In this and the next several articles, the authors of this column will present several techniques that will help preserve your estate and minimize the hardships that may be caused to your family. These articles will discuss the necessity of a will and various methods of reducing the taxable portion of your estate. This month's article focuses on the payment of federal estate taxes on an installment basis.

The burden of paying federal estate taxes is far more acute in the case of a farmer or rancher. This is due to the fact that inflation has caused the value of his farm or ranch to increase significantly, primarily through the increase in the value of the land. In addition, farmers and ranchers generally have few assets that may easily be converted to cash to pay estate taxes. If there is not enough cash to pay estate taxes, a farmer's or rancher's family is often forced to sell part or all of the property to raise enough cash for the payment of these taxes. However, professional assistance can help to alleviate the burden of the estate tax and increase the portion of an estate that passes to your family.

One method to avoid a forced sale of a farm or ranch to pay estate taxes is through the deferral of a portion of the estate taxes due at death. An estate is permitted to elect to pay a portion of the estate tax in two to ten annual installments. Interest must be paid on the portion of the taxes that are not paid immediately.

The deferral of estate taxes, which is often overlooked by estate planners, can only be elected if certain conditions are met. Two of these conditions are: 1) The value of your ranch or farm must comprise a certain percentage of your estate; and 2) The farm or ranch must be operated as a trade or business. The benefits to be derived from the deferral of taxes can be sizeable. On the death of a farmer or rancher, the person responsible for handling the estate should examine the availability of the selection. The rules for qualifying for the deferral of estate taxes are complex. Accordingly, in order to take advantage of this tax deferral technique, we recommend that the estate's representative contact his or her tax consultant.

Iowa Gelbvieh female sparks surge in bidding

By JERRY YORK

The Gelbvieh Grand National IX Show and Sale held during the National Western Stock Show, Denver, Colo., drew a large crowd of buyers and spectators, as well as a high quality offering of purchased and percentage cattle. The offering was not a large one, however, support for the consignments was as strong as any sale held during the week. Cattle were entered by 13 breeding establishments, and the female offering topped the entry by Rond Runner Farms, Clinton, Iowa. RRF Miss Lona, a Gelbvieh female, calving Feb. 10, 1979 and sired by Bayan 2F, created a strong surge of bidding between several interested breeders before selling for $8000. She went to K Bar M Ranch, Seminole, Okla.

The top-selling bull was a consignment from Cooper Ranch, Alta, Okla., and sold to Raymond and Mary Marcus, LaMotte, Iowa, for $11,100. A 15/16 blood bull born May 3, 1979, he was a son of Super Star and was the result of embryo transplant. Bonnet, Colo., for $5500. Cooper Ranch also entered Oklahoma Cowboy, an April 28, 1979 son of Super Star, and he returned $3000 going to Steve Larson, Logan, Neb.

Private sector aid keeps 4-H going

This year about 275 young people will receive $250,000 in national 4-H scholarships. Thousands more will attend citizenship, leadership and international training programs, says Bob Gilliland, associate director of 4-H for New Mexico State University. All of this and more is made possible by the private sector's support of 4-H on the national and local levels. In communities across the land, 4-H thrives because this unique partnership of the public and private sectors brings youth work of the cooperative extension service not only financial support, but active involvement in educational programs, too. Many business men and women volunteer their time to share expertise with young people.

South Devon breeders gather for national show in Denver

By DICK CROW

South Devon breeders from across the country held their national show at Denver's National Western Stock Show, Jan. 21.

There was a large crowd at ringside to watch a breed that is still relatively unknown in this part of the world.

Interestingly, for many years, South Devon has enjoyed wide acceptance by South American cattlemen, especially in the pampas area of southern Brazil.

Judge James C. Linthicum of Welch, Okla., made the entry of Double J Cattle Co., Iola, Kan., Springing Tod, the grand champion purebred bull. Reserve went to Heath Creek Farm, Northfield, Minn., on Northern Citation.

Cattle on feed report: Weather offsets bullishness of low numbers

(Continued from page 1) the exceptional feeding weather and large on-feed slaughter which has occurred during the fourth quarter of 1980.

Cattle are reported to be two to four weeks ahead of schedule in weight gains throughout most of the 23 states, the analysts said. The report will not be enough to turn the market around from its sideways price pattern of the last six weeks, according to Tom Toppens, professional cattle consultant analyst. Until new slaughter begins to decline and feed cattle numbers begin to decrease, improvement in the market is not expected, he said, although the report's figures could support present price levels.

Cow slaughter has been running above year-ago levels throughout the fall because of the drought, high feed and operating costs, high interest rates, and poor profit potential, Toppens said.

Joe Krupf, an analyst with Livestock Business Advisory Services Inc., said the weight breakdowns will be the most important aspect in the report in relation to near-term cash cattle prices because he expects a large number of cattle in the 1100 lb. and up category.

Krupf said this will indicate there are still large numbers of yield-grade 4 and 5 cattle that need to be marketed, which he considers bearish for near-term cash cattle prices and could pressure cash cattle prices $1.00 per cwt. lower.

The overall cattle have been a depressing factor since late October, he said.

However, Hummel expects the weight breakdowns to indicate cattle are more evenly distributed throughout the weight categories and will not show a burdensome number of cattle in the 1100 lb. and up category.

For second-quarter cash cattle prices, the report should be considered friendly to bullish by the analysts because the expected lower placement and cattle on feed figures should indicate that feed supplies will tighten, probably sometime in April.

Hummel expects the weight breakdowns to indicate that a large supply of cattle will be marketed, the third quarter, which is the negative for prices during that period.

Analysts are expecting total cattle on feed to range from 93.5 to 99.0% of year ago, according to a CNA survey. The survey showed predicted marketings to range from 90 to 95% of a year ago and placements to range from 100 to 105% of a year ago.

Haitian swine fever alerts U.S.

(Continued from page 1) and the U.S. would make it difficult to prevent spread to the mainland. There is no effective vaccine or treatment for ASF.

The declaration authorizes "... a program in cooperation with the government of Haiti, and with other governments and international organizations or associations, in carrying out operations or measures to eradicate, suppress or control African swine fever in Haiti or to prevent or retard African swine fever or vectors thereof from being introduced to and disseminated into the United States."

Lying to become deputy ag sec'y

Lying was a top contender for the job of agriculture secretary under Reagan before he went to John Black, former director of the Illinois Department of Agriculture. But Lying is expected to take a lead role in shaping agricultural policies under Black.

The appointment must be approved by the U.S. Senate.

The Haitian government has requested assistance in combatting the disease. Mexico and Canada have expressed interest in cooperating in the eradication effort.

ASF first invaded the western hemisphere in 1917. That outbreak, in Cuba, resulted in destruction of a half-million hogs. In 1978, the disease was confirmed in the Dominican Republic, and Brazil, with Haiti becoming infected in 1979. Cuba experienced a second outbreak early in 1980, which was rapidly eliminated.

The Dominican Republic elected to slaughter its entire swine population in order to eliminate ASF. With a loan provided by the U.S. Agency for International Development and technical assistance from USDA's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service, the slaughter program was completed in September 1980, and, after a period of surveillance, the country is now restocking with new pigs.

African swine fever is a highly contagious virus disease affecting only swine. Its symptoms in the acute form include high fever, red blotches on the skin, internal bleeding, collapse of the animal and nearly 100 percent death losses in the herd. The disease spreads rapidly like virulent forms of hog cholera. A milder, chronic form of ASF, with reduced death losses, has been experienced in some countries.

The disease is spread by infected live pigs and pork products, contaminated garbage, feed or water, contaminated premises, clothing, footwear, and improper disposal of infected carcasses. Eradication of ASF is possible only by quarantining all farms in the vicinity of an outbreak, destroying all infected and exposed swine, surveying swine herds and cleaning and disinfecting all infected and exposed farms.

THE CUT-AND-DRIED DIFFERENCE

Our ground-hugging platforms get more hay out of the field

Tight profit margins are putting the squeeze on today's farm managers. That's why you need the efficient operation of a John Deere 2320 or 2420 Windrower. Get a little more hay. Bumps and dips may be stealing part of your hard-earned hay. But our special flotation system is sensitive to the contours of your land. This helps our platforms reach down into dips and flex up over rises. In short, they hug the ground like a rug to get valuable feed that some windrowers leave behind.

Get a little more life out of your sickle bar. Our sensitive platform float system works with easy guard angle adjustment to extend sickle and guard life. If your fields are smooth as a pool table, lower the guard angle for a close crew cut. Adjustment is as simple as turning two turnbuckles.

Those rough fields are a problem. Just tilt the angle back to let the platform ride up and over obstructions. For even more durability, our knife drive runs in oil. Get a little more nutrition from your crop. Fast-working hydrostatic drive and a 62-hp engine give you more leeway in planning hay harvest (66-hp diesel available on the 2420). So chances are better you'll get more hay and a nutritional peak.

Get more efficient. Visit your John Deere dealer today and see how all these little efficiencies can add up to a big difference on your farm.

Market Roundup: Interesting market impact developing

AN INTERESTING MARKET impact developed as a result of the USDA's 23 state cattle on feed report. The general consensus was that the report confirmed ideas about ample cattle supplies and a continued heavyweight backlog problem through the first quarter of the year, followed by tighter supplies and bullish price moves, according to a CNS report.

Some analysts were surprised that the report's lower-than-expected feedlot placements figure at 91% of a year earlier did not produce a bullish response in the deferreds.

Even following the week's price declines, June futures closed at $70.05 per cwt., at least four to five dollars over the current choice prices.

The cattle on feed report had little short-term impact on cash cattle prices, however. Choice steer carcasses weighing 600 to 800 lbs. closed down eight dollars per cwt. from two weeks ago. The 800 to 900 lb. choice steer carcasses, quoted at $90 per cwt. have been trading two dollars per cwt. below the 600 to 800 lb. sizes—further evidence of herdsmen's overkill and beef supplies.
